

Have you used the collective power of your friends'
creativity?

How many unusual (and usual) ways are there to live
the life you want and do the work you love?

How might your passion add extraordinary value to the world around you?

How might your passion be a lifestyle and a craft?